To Whom It May Concern:

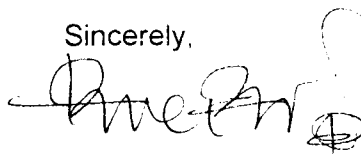

It is with great pleasure that I write this letter to recall my experience with Jacqueline C. Noguera and, hopefully, to serve as an introduction to your organization. However, her talents are many and difficult to summarize briefly.

Jacqueline is a member of the artistic triumvirate of the American Renaissance Theatre Company. Her contribution to both the organizational and the artistic endeavors of the company is irreplaceable. A great administrator, her work with our technical staff is extremely organized and maintains the highest level of efficiency. Her ability to find solutions for any situation has saved us on many an eleventh hour. Her artistic abilities have enriched the output of our group where she offers classical treatments with contemporary and revolutionary direction.

Above all else, working with Jacqueline is always a pleasure, and her ethical life and kind understanding has been a model to myself and the American Renaissance Theatre Company.

I feel Jacqueline would be an asset in any association and I hope that your company will soon have the opportunity to experience her great and many gifts.

Sincerely,
